The ground for such procedure on the part of Mr. Butler is, according to the pinion of leading lawyers, clearly stated in the notice served upon the notaries public, as follows:

Furthermore, as Congress has designated what officer may take the depositions in cases of contested election, such officer (whether he is appointed by the United States, such as a Judge of a Federal Court or a registrar in bankruptey, or by the State, such as a Judge of one of its ceuris of record, a Mayor or Recorder of a city, or a notary public performs this function, not under any authority derived from the State, but solely under the authority conferred upon him by Congress.

This being the law, as construed by the Supreme Court of the United States, the roere fact that you are a notary public, appointed and commissioned under the laws of the State of Missouri, does not give you the power of authority either to subpoen a wincesses or hear testimony when contestant has willfully and intentionally, or even unintentionally, violated the mandatory provisions of the United States law in respect to the time in which depositions shall be taken.

Furthermore, the oath of a witness in the House of Representatives is an oath recommended to be administered by the laws of the United States, and by those laws only; and the United States, and by those laws only; and the witness gives his testimony in obedience to those laws and not in the performance of any duty which he owes the State in which his testimony is taken.

As, owing to the failure of contestant to take testimony within the time required by law, you have no jurisdiction in the contested election case of Reynolds vs. Butler, and have no surherity to administer the cash to a witness, I protest against your acting or attempting to act in behalf of contestant, on the ground that such action on your part would be an illegal usurpation of power, and for the further reason that any oath you might administer to any witness would not be binding upon him. Respectfully yours.

"It was not expected in view of the mandatory provisions of the United States statutes governing the conduct of contested election cases where Congress is not in session that Clerk McDoweil could or would do anything else than send the alleged testimony forwarded to him by the Entaries public employed by contestant Reynolds to the Government printer.

"The law provides that when the testimony is received by the clerk of the House contestant and contestee shall be notified by registered mail of the date when the said testimony is to be opened and clerk of the House, when there is any disagreement between the parties interested or tehir attorneys as to what portion shall be printed, shall order such portion, or all of it, printed as he may deem proper. "Contestant asked that all be printed. Contestee objected to the printing of any portion as stated in The Republic of Thursday, but on that day objected especially to the printing of the so-called 'recapitulation,' on the ground that the same was clearly and plainly inadmissible in view of the self-evident fact that it was not transmitted under seal.

SENATE COMMITTEE FAVORS DELEGATE FROM ALASKA.

Territorial Form of Government Not Favored, but Representation in Congress Probable.

Washington, Sept. &-The Senate Subcommittee on Territories, which has just returned from a trip to Alaska, is undertood to be in favor of granting Alaska a Delegate to the House of Repreentatives, without, however, a territorial form of government, although no official statement has been made upon the subject.

The committee went to Alaska for the special purpose of investigating conditions and there is little doubt that its recommendations will be approved by the full committee and the Senate. On the House side there has long been a feeling favorable to Alaskan representation.

Now that there are delegates from Porto Rico and Hawaii there seems, to many in Congress, to be no valid reason why there should not be one from one of the most extensive territorial possessions of the

In the event that a delegate is given Alaska, in all probability the Republican candidate for that office will be the present Governor of Alaska, John Green Brady. Governor Brady is a New Yorker by birth, his early education, however, having been received from Judge John Green of Tipton, Ind., to whom he was sent by the Children's Ald Society of New York, when a child. There he worked his way through Yale and the Union Theological Seminary, where he graduated.

Later in life he engaged 1,700 acres of land in Texas, where he proposed to establish an industrial reform colony for New York slum boys, but on account of the lack of funds it was abandoned.

Governor Brady went to Alaska in 1878 as a missionary, with Doctor Sheldon, ackson, and later became manager of the Sitka Trading Company. He was appointed Governor of Alaska June 16, 187, and was reappointed June 6, 1800, his term expiring in 1804.

The Democratic candidate is very likely to be Aifred P. Swineford. After many years of prominence in the upper peninsula of Michigan, Mr. Swineford became Cleveland's Governor of Alaska eighteen years ago. He had a long training in mining countries; he had been a State legislator and candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Congress.

He had for years conducted a newspaper in Michigan's upper peninsula and he made one of the most popular governors the Russian purchase ever had. Governor Swineford, some years ago, as to y which was widely published. In this he said:

"When I am sitting in the executive residence at Sitka I am further east from Attu Island—the westermost of the Aleution Islands—than I am west of Portland, Me. If the capitol of the United States was located in the exact center of our country, it would in the Pacific Ocean, soo miles north by west of San Francisco." In the event that a delegate is given Alaska, in all probability the Republican

The "Sir Knights" Go to Distant Lands.

St. Louis seems to have the world for St. Louis seems to have the world for its territory and the universe for a customer. This fact was emphasized yesterday at Werthelmer-Swarts Shoe Company's office, Washington and Tenth street, when three letters were received from different parts of the world, inclosing orders for Clover Brand "Sir Knight" $4 shoes.

One letter was from Skagway, Alaska, the other from Sao Paulto, Brasil, and the third from Auckland, New Zealand. The distance represents about the most northern point of civilization, the most southern, and half way around the world.

The fame of St. Louis has become widespread, not alone through the World's Fair, but through her great shoe manufacturing interests. Authorities Find Further Evidence in the Warrenton Murder Mystery.

FOUND IN A CORN FIELD.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL.

Warrenton, Mo., Sept. 5.-Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Yeater, who were murdered in bed last Sunday, to-day found a pai of blood-stained trousers and a pair of old shoes in a corn field about a half mile southwest of the Yeater home. This is in line with Case, the M., K. & T. station where Willie Church, the adopted son of the couple, is said to have boarded a train the day following the murder. Case is a small station in the southwest corner of the county on the M., K. & T. Railroad. There being no special station agent here. Luppoid Brothers, who conduct a general store and post office, attend to the station business for the rail-

A man answering Church's description, wearing a light suit of clothes and a hat,
entered the Luppold store Monday afternoon, bought a lunch and some clears.
Afterwards he was seen going in a nearby cornfield with a telescope valise.
There he changed his clothes. He returned to the store, wearing a dark suit and a dark blue cloth cap.

He bought more cigars and a railroad ticket for St. Louis and departed on the

Besides the blood-stained clothing, Prosecuting Attorney Garber has the note to the mail carrier and a receipt from a dentist to Mrs. Yeater, the latter found on Lost Creek, eight miles southeast of Warrenton. Both of these papers are bloodstained and are considered strong and exclusive evidence.

Nothing further has been heard here of Church's whereabouts.

Mass Meeting of Sunday-School Workers to Be Held This Morning Under Care of Dr. Fielding Marvin.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. Mexico, Mo., Sept. 5 .- The veneration in which the Reverend Doctor John D. Vincil of St. Louis and Bishop Charles B. Galloway of Jackson, Tenn., are held was demonstrated this afternoon in the anouncements for services at the different Mexico churches Sunday, made before the seventh annual Missouri Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South,

It had been arranged that visiting Methodist ministers should occupy the different pulpits in Mexico Sunday morning and night, and when Doctor John Anderson. pastor of the local M. E. Church, South, had finished reading the list of selection he had been unable to find volunteers to preach at the two negro Methodist ing officer of the conference, broke in upon Doctor Anderson's remarks of re-

Bishop Galloway acdrossed the class of deacons, which will be ordained at the Sunday morning session to-day. In reference to ministers making argument for certain appointments the Bishop said that the people had rights, too, and that every preacher must stand or fall on his own morits, his own character and his own work: that they must not depend on "a friendly Presiding Elder, a kindly Bishop."

He held that every preacher who has a true religious feeling and would do his duty would find his proper place. The speaker advocated the higher life, saying that some preachers were so frightful of anaticism that they were afraid to preach the whole gospel.

The attendance at the afternoon session was large and the feature was a sermon by the Reverend B. M. Harris, an evangelist of Dearborne, Mo. The speaker said that some of the best-educated men that he some of the best-educated men that he
